

THE REGISTER CITIZEN

SONJA ZINKE/Register Citizen

Clai Bachmann looks up at her husband Andrew, founder and chairman of DYMAX Corp., as he holds the flag that was raised in front of the company building in Torrington on Thursday. Andrew was honored with the award of Executive Excellence from the Commercial Development & Marketing Association and was given the flag that has flown over our nation's capital. A ceremony to raise the flag was held Thursday.

City businessman receives honor, flag

TORRINGTON — Andrew G. Bachman, the chairman and founder of the DYMAX Corp., was honored Thursday by the Commercial Development and Marketing Association with the Award for Executive Excellence.

As part of his award, Bachman was presented with an American flag that had been flown over Washington, D.C. The flag was raised outside the DYMAX corporate headquarters at 318 Industrial Lane in Torrington on Thursday afternoon.

The award is given annually to a person who has made an outstanding contribution in the field of commercial development and marketing in the chemical and allied industries. The association, whose mission is to be the forum for networking, learning and sharing the best practices in business development and marketing for industries with a chemical platform, is dedicated to helping its members grow their companies, according to a press release issued by DYMAX Corp. on Thursday.

DYMAX is a global supplier of structural adhesives, coatings, encapsulates and UV-curing equipment widely used in the medical, aerospace and electronic industries, according to the release.

— Register Citizen Staff